New American Cancer Society (ACS) Resource Center at Sky Ridge Brings Added Services to the Community

Sky Ridge Medical Center and the American Cancer Society have teamed up to provide more access to services in the south metro area. We have opened an ACS Resource Center in the Sky Ridge Cancer Center to help you find answers about cancer, even when the resources seem out of reach. Our volunteers help patients and caregivers with the most recent information on the prevention, early detection and treatment of cancer. They will also help link those affected by cancer to information, services, and local resources for help. The Society's Cancer Resource Centers provide guidance to help cancer patients, survivors, and caregivers navigate their cancer journey. The American Cancer Society Cancer Resource Center at Sky Ridge Medical Center is available to help answer questions Monday – Friday from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

“The Cancer Resource Center at Sky Ridge Medical Center is a resource for cancer survivors, their family and friends,” Quality of Life Manager, Amanda Childs says. “We help people on a personal level. We have free wigs, hats and information for people dealing with a cancer diagnosis and it’s all in one place.”
